Preface

The 1979 edition of Aids to Media Selection for Students and Teachers, which revises the 1976 edition is a list of bibliographies and journals which review books, periodicals, and audiovisual materials of relevance for elementary and secondary school instructional programs. The scope of this edition has been limited to those materials to which there was access.

The new Aids to Media Selection for Students and Teachers lists only reviewing tools published since 1976, except for a few titles which have not been revised or replaced and are considered essential in areas where there is a sparsity of information such as in the Multiethnic Section. It should be noted that the Multiethnic Section is not as comprehensive as in the former edition. The present practice is to include in a single bibliographical reviewing tool all subjects. This would include such areas as multicultures, stereotyping, environmental issues, handicapping and other topics currently incorporated into the curriculum.

The format of this edition has been altered. It is now divided into four sections:

I. Book Selection Sources
II. Periodicals
III. Sources of Audiovisual Materials
IV. Sources of Multiethnic Materials

A directory of publishers and author-title index are included.

Inclusion of a bibliography or periodical does not imply official endorsement of it or any item in it by the U.S. Office of Education. Prices quoted for all bibliographies and periodicals are subject to change.

Aids to Media Selection for Students and Teachers and its former editions have proven useful to State and local educational agencies participating in the consolidated program: Part B of Title IV of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Instructional Materials and School Library Resources, and other Federal programs that provide for instructional media. The publications have been equally useful in State and local media programs. It is hopeful that Aids to Media Selection for Students and Teachers, in this new edition, will continue to serve its readers well.

Public Law 95-561 extends and amends the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. The law emphasizes the importance of media in elementary and secondary school instruction and the involvement of librarians, media specialists, and teachers, and other professional staff in the selection and coordination of instructional materials.

I. BOOK SELECTION SOURCES

I. BOOK SELECTION SOURCES

Part A: Nonselective Bibliographies

The volumes described below are primarily quick-reference tools. For the book selector they indicate the range of the field and of subject categories, as well as current availability; any element of choice has been exercised only by the publishers.

R.R. Bowker Co. Art Books in Print. New York: 1979. 2,500 pp. $65.

Contains approximately 45,000 books and serials on the visual arts listed under 10,000 subject headings with full finding and ordering information for each title. Separate author and title index. A special feature is a Guide to Museum Permanent Collection Catalogs. Also includes an index of museum names and addresses, a geographic index of museums, and a subject area outline.
